Presentation of the anthology “Rehearsing for Teaching”

This anthology explores various aspects of rehearsing in different subjects, such as mathematics, english and pedagogy. The articles show how rehearsing can be included as a central factor in teacher education and the implications this has for the teaching of subjects, subject didactics and general didactics. More specifically, the anthology examines rehearsals and critical observations and analyses of these rehearsals, with the aim of developing teaching competence through reflective teaching practices. Gert Biesta will talk about why it is interesting to examine “Rehearsing for teaching”.
